The democrats are in the same old position—between wind and water.

It is estimated that one hundred thousand babies will be named after Blaine this year.

Since the 6th of June the Tilden men have been hard to find. Result: the letter of declination.

The late Mr. Tilden, of blessed memory, was the first democrat to see the handwriting on the wall, and tremble.

Any public man whose portrait has not found its way in the columns of the country newspapers, has occasion to feel profoundly thankful.

As yet not a single republican newspaper has belted Blaine and Logan. The so-called bolting papers are independent papers—not republican.

The Wall street swindlers can find a good example in the dishonest clerk in New York, who after being discovered in his dishonesty, shot himself.

The only places the democratic party can boast of are those which are ready for the democratic heave next fall. Such places are not apt to create enthusiasm.

Henry Clay Work, the song writer, who recently died, was a printer by trade. He composed "Grandfather's Clock," but in the hour of his death the public will forgive him.

The work of organizing Blaine clubs has begun with promptness and energy. There will be clubs enough this year to knock the democratic party further out of time than 1888.

A democrat who hasn't a presidential bubble buzzing about his ear, will feel like shaking hands with himself. Its another bad year for democratic presidential candidates.

The 8th of July has no terrors for the republican party. It has run the immaculate Samuel off the track, and can as easily handle any other candidate the democratic convention can name.

There are fears that Bishop Simpson, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will not recover from his illness. He has been a bishop 32 years, and is one of the foremost pulpit orators of his time.

Mrs. Rosaline Peck, of Daraboo, the first white woman who settled at Madison, and the mother of the first female child born in that city, addressed a gathering of pioneers at Madison on Tuesday.

The last day of this month will see the last day of the present session of congress. It has been a profligate session, on the whole, and the democrats have thrown away an opportunity to get a credit mark.

Mr. Tilden is quite an expert letter-writer. He can say no, and at the same time means yes, with as much skill and cunning as any man in the country. He doesn't say that he will not accept the nomination under any circumstances. He knows better than to say that.

It was just like Mr. Locke, (Nash), to send a congratulatory telegram to Mr. Blaine, and here it is:

Toledo, Ohio, June 7—James G. Blaine: I congratulate you, but the party and country more. I have not been so well pleased since my wedding.

D. R. LOCKE.

The Philadelphia Times was very cautious when it said, "The nomination of Blaine does not give the democrats a presidential victory, but it does give them an opportunity." Of course, it does; another opportunity to make a blunder, and the best chance in the world to get defeated again.

The State Journal is in hard luck this time; it has come out for Blaine, while its old stand-by and nemesis, the Albany Evening Journal, announces that under no circumstances will it support the nominee of the Chicago convention.

The Democrat is kicking against the facts. The Albany Evening Journal does not make the announcement that it will not support Blaine and Logan. But on the contrary, it supports them with all its might.

Colonel McClure, the owner and the editor of that independent paper, the Philadelphia Times, says one thing which will be endorsed by the ten million votes of the United States: "When President Arthur returns he will take with him the respect and esteem of the entire country, opponents as well as partisans, and in a greater degree than any president we have had in half a century. Lincoln did not serve his time out. Jackson was hated, Pierce and Polk amounted to nothing, but Arthur, of whom much less was expected, has absolutely the confidence and regard of the whole American people."

The brightest young Catholic bishop in this country is Bishop Ryan of St. Louis, who has been appointed Archbishop of Philadelphia. He is by all odds the most eloquent Catholic preacher in this country. He belongs to the "intense school of orators. Forcible gestures, a strong and well-modulated voice and a generally impressive way, are his methods of convincing. Since he has been in St. Louis he has preached in the cathedral on alternate Sundays. On those days the building has invariably contained enormous congregations, and among those who listened to his oratory there were always numbers belonging to other creeds."

LOOKING BACK EIGHT YEARS.
While it might not be easy for the July president-makers to present a more respectable candidate than Edmunds or Arthur, it would be rather difficult for them to present a less respectable one than Mr. Blaine. This is the Times' opinion.—Chicago Times.

The Times' opposition to Mr. Blaine grows, chiefly, from the scandal hurled against him in 1876, when the Mulligan letters and other matters pertaining thereto, were before the democratic house of representatives. The Gazette is glad to call the attention of the Times to its own special telegrams from Washington, on the 5th of June, 1876, in which the remarkable scene in the house was most graphically described. The Times then said it was the most wonderful scene ever witnessed in a public body in this country; that with a cloud of obloquy resting upon him, in the face of opposition unexampled and intrepid, in the face of a majority of political opponents, with half-hearted friends around him, Blaine took the floor and with his shining lance conquered everything before him. For an hour the scene was bewildering, surprising, and so full of consternation, that its equal had never been seen in the American congress.

On that historic day, so full of extraordinary incidents, the galleries of the house were densely packed with as brilliant an audience as ever looked down upon the house of representatives. The interest was intense and the excitement was at fever heat. The man who created such a thrilling scene was James G. Blaine, who was there single-handed and alone to defend his honor. Mulligan's amazing statements had been made to the house, and the democratic party and Mr. Blaine's faint-hearted friends said he was crushed. When the minute-hand of the clock in the house had touched the hour of one, on the 5th of June, 1876, Mr. Blaine quietly rose to his feet with remarkable calmness, and said in a strangely self-controlled voice, "Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to state a question of privilege." There was profound silence, for Mr. Blaine had thus listened, upon the house of representatives the highest discussion that can be brought before that body. His voice was a little husky, at first, but it was not long before it assumed that natural tone and power which his enemies had loathed and covered under many times. The marvelous display of eloquence and meekness that followed for one hour and a half, passed all describing. This prince of parliamentarians and giant in debate, made his startling voice ring out over that brilliant concourse of people, and so thick and fast were thrown the thunderbolts in the ranks of his accusers that there was no time for them to interpose objection. With daring and consummate skill he lashed his enemies right and left until their position was painfully distressing. He said he was speaking to 45,000,000 millions of American people, and upon those he wished every word to weigh to the full import. He was resolute and audacious in every step he took in his argument, and utterly tore to tatters every point his enemies had made against him. A tornado never swept the dust from a highway with more vehemence and completeness than Mr. Blaine swept away the charges against him. The scorching indignation he poured upon the heads of his investigators acted like a mighty shower of burning brands. The sympathy of the house was soon with him. There came unexpressed cheers and applause more Niagara-like than had ever before been heard in congress. Cox's heavy gavel could not control the roar and the tumult. Only Blaine's voice could be heard above the din, still showing his condemnation upon the worthless heads of his inquisitors.

And what did the Chicago Times then say to all this? It said that his "accusers had left undone things they could have done, and they had done things they should not have done, and there was neither grace, fairness, meekness nor justice in them." The Times further said that resolutions had been offered, investigations plotted, conspiracies hatched, all for one purpose, that to crush Blaine. When the man from Maine had shown all this to be the case, he marched down in the center of the hall pointing his finger in the faces of the democratic members, his voice still ringing loud and clear which had the effect of a hot and burning hurricane. The convulsion of feeling in the house was tremendous, and cheer after cheer made the capitol fairly tremble. He read the Mulligan letters, he produced all the telegrams, and explained every point in connection with the Fort Smith land grant, and when he had finished there came that terrible climax that threw the house into uncontrolled excitement. Blaine's democratic accusers were completely crushed beneath the scolding and overpowering rebuke he poured upon them. And what did the Chicago Times say to this on the 5th of June, 1876? "A more complete, overwhelming, astonishing rout never fell upon the party, and as Blaine walked back to his seat a hundred arms were outstretched to him, in hearty recognition of his magnificent triumph."

LOOKING AROUND
For a Man to Take the Place of Samuel J. Tilden.
Convening the Availability of Prominent Men—Bayard and Carlisle—A Room Started for Voorhees—Political Pointers.

Chicago, June 13.—The Herald's Washington City special says: The destination of Mr. Tilden has spurred up the friends of Senator Bayard, and for the one day his name has been prominently discussed thus far. The senator has received communications in favor of his nomination from every section of the north and west. At a private conference of his friends recently he said to them that he would not engage in any personal struggle for the nomination, but if it came to him, unsought, he would make the fight. Republican senators profess to have no fear of Bayard's candidacy. They appreciate the action and confidence in which he is held by the great financial interests of New York, but claim that he could be beaten on his 1891 peace speech. Mr. Bayard has often said that he stood by the sentiments of this speech, but there was not one line in it which could properly be construed as disloyal to the Union, and that such construction could only be justified from purposely garbled reports. A correct copy of this speech will, it is understood, be given to the public.

The name of Speaker Carlisle has also received some complimentary allusions for several places. Senator Lamar said that Bayard and Carlisle would be a strong ticket, but he did not think the southern Democrats expected or desired to be represented on the ticket. Senator Lamar does not think the Blaine and Logan ticket so weak as some other Democrats. He does not think the Democrats have an easy victory before them, but that the struggle will be long and fierce, and to secure Democratic success every inch of ground must be stubbornly contested.

A prominent New York Democrat here says Cleveland will not receive the nomination, for the reason that he is not satisfactory to an influential faction of his party, and no matter how popular he is with the masses he is almost certain of defeat in the convention. The same gentleman is equally as positive that the mantle of Tilden, so far as New York is concerned, must fall upon the shoulders of ex-congressman Flower.

There are now in the city quite a number of prominent New York Democrats, and of these, among them Tilden's nephew, McLean and ex-Mayor Cooper had a conference. Randall was also present with the Ohio Voorhees men. It was the sense of the conference that Voorhees was the best man to put forward, as he would harmonize the split on the tariff matter, and would all right to work an Indiana Democrat, speaking of this movement, said that it had been discussed for the last two days, and he thought Voorhees was the strongest man in Indiana, and that his long financial views did hurt him in New York it could be equalized by the nomination of a strong New Yorker. With regard to Indiana's having three candidates at Chicago he said, "Well, we are going to the fight anyhow, and I don't see that we lose anything by it. Tilden won't run, and that leaves out Hendricks, and if McDonald finds Voorhees stronger than himself he will be very ungrateful to Voorhees. He don't show his (McDonald's) strength to the Tall Sycamore."

The Inter Ocean's Washington City special says: Ex-Senator Thurman, of Ohio, has been freely spoken of as a man who could unite all factions, and has been long out of public life as to have permitted all of the old antagonism to die out.

WORKINGMEN'S DEMANDS.

New York, June 13.—At a meeting of the Independent Labor Union a committee was appointed to wait upon the Democratic state convention at Saratoga next week and request that certain planks be inserted in the platform for the benefit of the working classes. The organization is in favor of the enforcement of the eight hour law and the abolition of civil service as at present carried out.

A Room for Ready.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 13.—The Tilden lot is very much depleted in this city among the Democracy. The friends of Governor Tilden have been preparing a boom for him in which they will launch him upon the country in a few days. He will then be formally announced as a candidate.

How Wisconsin Democracy Stands.
MILWAUKEE, June 13.—From prominent Democrats from all parts of the state, who have been in private conference here, it is learned that the Wisconsin delegation on the 21st ballot will stand 11 for Flower and 11 for Cleveland. On the second ballot the delegation will be solid for whoever is the choice of the united New York delegation.

Connecticut Men for Cleveland.
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 13.—The Connecticut delegates to the Democratic national convention met here and elected officers. Governor Cleveland appeared to be the first choice of the delegation.

THE RESERVE ECCLESIASTICAL.
A Canadian Roman Catholic Bishop to the Presbyterians.

TORONTO, Ont., June 13.—Archbishop Lynch, of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Toronto, has addressed an open letter to the pastors and members of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of Canada, now in session. His grace says: "We have reason to think the majority of your venerable body will not only approve the doctrines of the Catholic church, but will also approve the doctrines of the church of England and the church of Scotland. The old edifice of attributing to the church idolatry and immorality, which by consideration, at present at least, by question of education and knowledge of the world, as entirely exploded, or, at least, but half believed by the very ignorant and naturally prejudiced. But when the ground is cleared, and the light of Catholicism is shown to be the true religion, we feel called upon at this late hour to protest against such denials."

The archbishop continues that it is the creed of the Catholic church to adore or worship images, and adds: Catholics pray to God alone a sovereign to worship, and give glory to him alone, through the apostles and saints that veneration and honor which is due to them as friends of God and benefactors of their race in a spiritual sense. The archbishop controverts the statements as to the doctrine of the church against the Rev. Tannor, and concludes the letter with the following: "The sin of bearing false witness against a neighbor is greater in proportion to the number that is sought to be injured. The Catholic church, therefore, throughout the world at present 350,000,000 people, made up of an immense class of respectable and God-fearing people of all conditions of life. There are unworthy members, as in every society; but to condemn such a large number in an assembly such as yours, and through the public press, may be considered a very grievous sin."

Alleged Train Wreck Arrested.
CINCINNATI, June 13.—A wreck on the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore railroad, near Loveland, was caused by the removal of a rail from the track. William Scott, a negro aged 20, living on a farm five miles from Loveland, has been arrested on suspicion. A book containing photographic views of scenery on the Pennsylvania road was found in the wreck. Scott's name is inscribed thereon. Another colored man named Johnson, who has a bad reputation, is supposed to have been Scott's accomplice. Detectives are on the lookout for him, and charges of kidnapping are freely indulged in. Although only two persons were slightly injured it was a a miraculous escape for all who were aboard the train.

The Homoeopaths.
CINCINNATI, June 13.—The tenth annual convention of the Western Academy of Homoeopathy, which has been in session here for the past three days, concluded. Its deliberations with the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: President, A. J. Everett, of Dover; vice president, H. R. Arnold, Grand Rapids, Mich.; secretary, C. H. Goodman, St. Louis, Mo.; provisional secretary, N. P. Delander, Chicago; treasurer, G. W. Felt, of Dallas, Ill.; board of censors, W. C. Barker, Waukegan, Ill.; M. M. Eton, Cincinnati; A. Donald, Stillwater, Minn.; S. B. Parsons, St. Louis, Mo.; J. E. Gross, Chicago.

Charged with Child Murder.
PERRISBURG, June 13.—Helen Chisholm, and her mother, Mrs. Andrew Thompson, were arrested at Bradock, charged with the drowning of the 3 weeks' old babe of Illinois. Andrews promised to marry Helen if the child was put out of the way. The body of the child was found in the river May 29. It is said that this is the third time the woman, whose husband is now in the country, has been guilty of child murder.

The President.
NEW YORK, June 13.—The president, accompanied by Secretary Lincoln and Congressman Burleigh, has arrived at the Fifth Avenue hotel from Washington. The president intends starting for West Point, where he will be present at the military commencement exercises. He will return to this city and remain till Monday, when he goes to Washington. The president declined to talk on politics to the reporters.

Professor Chamberlain, who was to have officiated at the marriage of the deceased to Miss Ella Ottenden, on the 2d of July, officiated at the funeral.

Messrs. Lyon & Haskell have just completed sixteen rods of concrete sidewalk in front of Dr. E. E. Loomis' residence, corner of Washington street and Mineral Point avenue, in the first ward. The walk is six feet wide, and is put down to stay. The above firm are engaged to-day putting down a concrete walk in front of the property of Mr. Peter Myers, corner of Main and North Second streets.

Little Mabel Polton celebrated her tenth birthday yesterday afternoon and evening, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Polton, on Glen street, second ward, by inviting some half a hundred of her acquaintances to her home, most of whom responded in person. The occasion was one of real enjoyment to the little ones, and one long to be remembered by all who participated.

Mr. P. W. Brodie to-day sold the "Seaside" restaurant to Messrs. A. B. Green and C. A. Langren, the latter gentlemen taking possession at once. Mr. Brodie has been conducting the establishment for some time, is well known in this city, and is one of the best confectioners in the country. That the "Seaside" will continue to prosper and enjoy a liberal public patronage, is the best wish of the Gazette towards the new managers.

A little money spent in advertising brought to the New York saving store, on West Milwaukee street, the largest trade this week that they have ever had. The store has been crowded from morning until late in the evening, and customers have gone away feeling well satisfied with their investment. Much credit is due to the energetic manager, Mr. Hood, for the manner in which the business of the New York saving store is being conducted. A little money judiciously spent in printer's ink pays well, and assures prompt returns.

Messrs. Stearns & Baker, the druggists on West Milwaukee and Franklin streets, now come forward with the extra announcement that they will set up the "soda water" for the home company selling their fountain first, at the conclusion of the race on Franklin street, on the Fourth of July. We can vouch for the excellent quality of the soda water, but would not bet over two to one which company "got there." If the race comes off, as suggested, it will be quite interesting, as it is proposed to confine each company to their "regular" members, and run "hub-to-hub."

Dickson's Sketch club appeared at the opera house last evening, before a medium sized audience. The plays being "Editha's Burglar," and "Combustion," a double bill, as it were; the audience was kept in good humor from beginning to end, oftentimes the humor of the play producing uproarious laughter. The singing was fair, and frequently received merited applause, calling for several encores. The company is an excellent one, and will produce the same bill at the opera house this evening, and should be greeted with a crowded house.

Complaints are frequently made to the newspapers of the nuisance of playing ball in the public streets and the public grounds. Those who make a practice of playing ball in the public streets should read ordinance No. 68, which is as follows: "Section 1. No person or persons shall hereafter play any game of ball, or toss or throw any ball in or upon any street or public ground in the city of Janesville. Section 2—Any person who shall violate the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars nor less than two dollars." The enforcement of this law will prevent the breaking of windows, and the running over of flower gardens by the boys who jump over fences after a "lost ball."

The pains and tortures of the Spanish acquisition were not more agonizing than those that in our late civilization are daily felt by the great army of beggars, rheumatism and neuritis. Rev. W. B. Evans, of Washington, D. C., was a victim until he was induced to try Atchafalpa, and now he writes "I consider myself almost in the light of a miracle. It is a most wonderful medicine. It ought to be spread throughout the land."

A Pleasant Surprise.

For some time past the friends of Dr. O. P. Robinson have been plotting a surprise for that gentleman, and last evening, it being the doctors seventy-second birthday, about thirty of the old residents of the city, and consequently old and intimate friends of the doctor, met at the residence of Mr. A. P. Bennett in the fourth ward, and marched in a body to the doctor's house. That professional gentleman, who had been detained in order to meet a patient, found them suddenly to be so numerous that he was utterly unable to diagnose the case, individually or collectively. As health officer of the city, his first impression seemed to be that an epidemic was upon him, and the evidence was that it was certainly of the most contagious character. He soon became convinced, however, that it was not of a dangerous nature, and although considerably overcast, the presence of most of the board of health seemed to somewhat reassure him, and he received his patients with his usual urbanity. Although the invitations were confined to gentlemen, the fair faces of several of the doctor's lady friends graced the occasion, and their ready assistance enhanced the enjoyment. The evening train brought Mr. E. N. Neigelsen and wife, brother-in-law and sister-in-law of the doctor, and with them came Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, nephew and niece of the doctor; also Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Sleeper, all of Chicago. At this time the Bower City band took seats upon the lawn, and as their sweet music floated out on the night air, all agreed that nothing was wanting to complete the happiness of the evening. By this time the doctor was too far gone to remember where he commenced. He was asked how old he was, and he could not tell within twenty years, and before he could again collect himself, he was seated at a most elegant repast in the midst of his guests. When all had sufficiently regaled themselves, Mr. A. P. Bennett rose to a point of order and remarked that Mr. E. M. Byer wanted to talk, and rather than have any trouble he was in favor of giving him an opportunity. That gentleman rose in his place, and referring to the many years the doctor had seen, to the genial nature that had enabled him to bear them so well, and to the friendship engendered by long association, presented to the doctor an elegant gold-headed cane from his friends. At this stage the doctor had concluded that the occasion was a presidential boom, and not having prepared his letter declining the nomination, he only returned thanks for the cane and relapsed into a semi-comatose condition. Dr. Martin caught the speaker's eye just at this moment, and finding that he was recognized, said it was not the best speech Doctor Robinson ever made, it was the shortest. Then Hon. John Winans took the floor and the audience settled down to hear a speech against the River and Harbor appropriation, but for once that representative forgot his platform economy, being probably led away by the heat of debate, and in a few touching words presented to Mrs. Robinson, in behalf of her friends, a most beautiful silver water set of three pieces. That estimable lady began a speech in reply, but it was drowned in tears and applause. An elegant album was also given to the doctor by Mr. and Mrs. Sleeper, together with many other presents by other friends. The discussion now became general. Mr. Sleeper, Mr. M. C. Smith, Mr. J. B. Doe, Mr. Andrew Palmer and others entertained the company with reminiscences of old times, and in this happy way the evening was spent before an adjournment was thought of, and when the guests finally started they were conscious that they had been present at a most enjoyable reunion. Among those present were, Hamilton Richardson, James Richardson, John J. P. Passo, E. D. McKinney, C. Lottis Martin, Hiram Merrill, A. E. Burpee, John Dowdy, Edward M. Byer, Peter Lennart, George C. McLean, Alton Rogers, James Van Etta, A. P. Bennett, David Davies, James E. Fitzgibbon, J. B. Doe, Dr. G. H. McConvey, E. D. Tallman, Charles A. Polter, John Spence, B. Spence, E. L. Dimock, M. C. Smith, Alex. Richardson, John Winans, J. A. Blount, Andrew Palmer.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

Arrangement for the Celebration in Janesville.

Appointment of the Various Committees and Chairmen of the Program.

The patriotic citizens of Janesville assembled in the common council chamber last evening, for the purpose of taking action on the report of the general committee of arrangements and completing the programme for the due observance of Independence Day in Janesville. In the absence of Mr. Bliss, the chairman of the citizens meeting, Mr. C. B. Conrad was chosen chairman.

Mr. W. T. Vankirk, of the committee of arrangements, read the following report:

To the Chairman of the Citizens' Meeting: Your committee to whom was referred the matter as to how we should, as patriotic citizens, celebrate the Fourth day of July, respectfully submit the following:

That we unanimously favor a proper observance of the day, provided a sufficient sum of money be subscribed to pay the necessary expenses.

That at least seven hundred dollars will be necessary.

That the exercises during the day should consist of a street parade, ending at the court house park, where an oration would be delivered by some prominent man, and the Declaration of Independence be read.

The procession to consist of the two bands, the military companies, fire department, various civic societies, clowns, etc., representing the various industries of our city, etc., etc.

That both the Lower City and Catholic cornet bands be engaged for the whole day and evening, and that they give alternate concerts in the court house park and on the corn exchange square during the afternoon.

That instead of the usual display of stationary fire-works in the court house park, we would recommend a torch-light procession, the line of march to be illuminated by colored lights, Roman candles, and other fire-works to be discharged from the whole length of the procession while on the march, making a display similar to the one made by our military companies when escorting the visiting military to the railroad depot the night of July Fourth, 1883.

As entertainment for the afternoon, it is recommended that prizes be offered for horse races on South Franklin street, at three o'clock; bicycle races on South Jackson street at four o'clock, and a foot race on North Main street at two o'clock. Also, that the band play in the court house park at three o'clock and for the remainder of the afternoon, for the entertainment of visitors and citizens.

All of which is respectfully submitted. S. C. COBB, Temporary Chairman.

RICHARD VALENTINE, Secretary.

Mr. J. A. Dennison moved that the procession form at the Tallman laboratory on Pleasant street at 10 o'clock a. m., which was adopted.

On motion of Mr. J. P. Bekar the line of march was adopted as follows: Forming at the laboratory on Pleasant street, the procession to move up Pleasant to Academy, north on Academy to Bluff, north on Bluff to North Second, west on North Second to Main, south on Main to the court house park, where the exercises of the forenoon are to take place—the reading of the Declaration and the oration.

On motion of Mr. J. A. Dennison the evening, or torch light, procession was ordered formed on South Jackson street, near the Janesville machine company's works, at 7:30 p. m., and the line of march to extend north on Franklin street to Pleasant, east on Pleasant to Main, north on Main to North Second, east on North Second to Bluff, south on Bluff to Milwaukee, west on Milwaukee to Academy and then counter march over the same line.

The Celebration.

The only thing now looking to enable the committee to carry out a first class Fourth of July celebration, is a sufficient sum of money to defray the expenses. The first thing in order will be a thorough canvass of the city for subscriptions to the fund. The financiers—Messrs. C. Miner, John E. Chapman, T. B. Lesby, George H. Osgood, Richard Valentine, John M. Bauman and J. P. Baker, will see that each patriotic person is called upon for a contribution to the fund, that they may be enabled to make an early report to the general committee, and that the other details of the celebration may proceed. Let every one lend a helping hand, and assist in carrying out the grandest celebration ever held in the city.

The Prize Baby of 1870.

At the Rock county fair held in this city, September 24, 1870, the society of fared, among other attractions, a premium for the handsomest baby. The premium was a silver tea set valued at twenty dollars, and the competition was quite interesting, as the following account of the exhibition, published in the Gazette at that time, indicates:

"But one of the appointed committee was present, so it was necessary that the places of the absent ones should be filled, which was done by a vote of the spectators, amid the greatest enthusiasm. The re-organized committee was as follows: A. O. Wilson, Janesville; Paul Broder, Beloit; Miss Marion Wheeler, La Prairie; Miss Frank Sanborn, Janesville; Miss S. Webster, Emerald Grove—all unmarried. The committee commenced its difficult task, while the impatient crowd of people about the stand amused themselves by speculating on the prospects of each competitor. We heard of no money being staked on the issue, but one irreverent youngster, rolling in the sawdust at the foot of the starway, offered the great odds of 'two to one on the bald head.' After an hour of examination and deliberation the committee reached a decision, which was announced by Dr. Whiting, the temporary manager of the nursery. Mrs. G. A. Nelson, Janesville, first premium (silver tea set valued at $20); Mrs. Burr Sprague, Brodhead, second premium, (six bottle silver cester, valued at $12); Mrs. H. O. Russell, Beloit, third premium, (silver knife, fork, spoon and cup.)

The successful babies were exhibited to the crowd, and the Southern Wisconsin baby show ended in three cheers for those who won.

The fair and impartial manner in which this committee performed its duty has been the subject of remark, and if we hear any dissenting voices in the future we will know at once that the parties are in some way interested in a baby which did not take a premium."

The "baby," winning the first prize, was afterwards christened Edwena Dolphena Nelson, and her parents removed some time ago to Canton, Dakota. Word now comes to us that Edwena Dolphena, who is only fourteen years old, was married last week to Mr. Edward Hurd, who is twenty-one years of age. It is hoped that Edwena has won another first prize in a man that will make her a kind and affectionate husband, as her tender years would naturally lead to the opinion that her life would be anything but happy with any other than a kind disposition on the part of her help-mate. It is said that Mrs. Hurd has not lost any of her youthful beauty, being considered, at the time of her marriage, the belle of the town of Canton. The "boss girl" and the "prize baby," now have the floor to exchange congratulations.

Miss Kittie Williams' Marriage.

It has already been announced in the Gazette that Miss Kittie Williams, daughter of Hon. Charles G. Williams, of Watertown, Dakota, was married on the 31st instant, to Dr. R. F. Campbell, of this city; but the Water-own Daily Courier gives us some additional particulars which will prove of interest to the many friends of the family in this city. It was the most brilliant social event that ever took place in that city. The prospects were very numerous and costly, and came from friends in all parts of the northwest, and many from Watertown, New York. Those given by Janesville friends are as follows:

A Bicycle Club.

A committee on membership was appointed, consisting of Messrs. F. N. Webster, Bart Pulker, and Ed. Fild.

The club starts out with a membership of eleven, and as there are seventeen wheels owned in the city, it is thought that the membership will be increased to that number.

The following officers were elected at the meeting on Monday evening: President—John Livingston.
